

CREED in English of the PaDI

I- Explanatory note

The Creed of the Pan-African Integral Development (PaDI) is a foundational declaration that articulates the vision, values, and guiding principles of the organization. It reflects the convictions that inspire the commitment, training, and collective action of its members.

Structured around twelve principles, the Creed affirms that sustainable development begins with the inner transformation of the human person. Societies advance when individuals cultivate responsibility, discipline, integrity, and a deep sense of purpose.

The Creed further recognizes that Africa holds within itself the human, intellectual, and moral resources necessary for its renewal and for its constructive contribution to global progress. Sustainable development therefore rests on education, lifelong learning, responsible leadership, and the creation of value through initiative and enterprise.

It also highlights the importance of cooperation among peoples, nations, and diasporas, as well as the necessity of long-term vision and strong institutions capable of organizing talent, transmitting knowledge, and coordinating collective efforts.

In this spirit, the Pan-African Integral Development stands as a framework for education, discipline, and purposeful action dedicated to fostering a new generation of builders committed to the advancement of Africa and to the progress of the world.

II- CREED

Twelve Principles for Building the Future

- 1. We affirm that sustainable development begins with the inner transformation of the human person.
- 2. We recognize that Africa possesses within itself the human, intellectual, and moral resources necessary for its renewal and for its meaningful contribution to the progress of humanity.
- 3. We acknowledge that talent alone is not sufficient. Enduring progress requires discipline, method, organization, and perseverance.
- 4. We choose constructive action over passive observation, recognizing that history is shaped by those who build with courage, responsibility, and determination.
- 5. We commit ourselves to integrity, responsibility, and personal rigor, understanding that collective responsibility begins with self-discipline.

6. We affirm that education, lifelong learning, and the transmission of knowledge are essential pillars of human development.

7. We promote initiative, economic responsibility, and the creation of value as foundations of sustainable prosperity.

8. We believe that cooperation among peoples, nations, and diasporas is a vital force for progress, innovation, and stability.

9. We reject fatalism and short-term improvisation. We embrace structure, discipline, and a clear vision for the future.

10. We believe in the emergence of a generation of disciplined, responsible, and visionary leaders committed to serving the common good.

11. We recognize the necessity of strong and credible institutions capable of organizing human potential, transmitting knowledge, and coordinating collective action.

12. We affirm that the Pan-African Integral Development (PaDI) provides a framework for education, discipline, and collective engagement dedicated to nurturing a generation of builders committed to Africa and to the global community.

Thus rises a generation of builders.

Thus opens a new path for Africa and for the world.

Pan-African Integral Development (PaDI)
Educate. Discipline. Build. Create lasting impact.
